Chapel provides the opportunity for Taylor students, faculty, and administration to come together as a whole body for worship and for spiritual growth. Three times a week Taylor had an opportunity to experience a regeneration of mind and soul.

This fall's Chapel speakers included Taylor faculty, alumni, parents, as well as friends of the university. The speakers came to us from different parts of the country and also from as nearby as Upland.

Pastor Hill started out the school year with his Chapel topic of "Fickle Followers." Dr. James Earl Massey of Anderson School of Theology was our next speaker, followed by our own President, Dr. Milo Rediger, who spoke to us on "The Rest of the 'R's' in Revival."

A few of the unique Chapels included: The Anthony Family musicians, Jim and Sally Conway's multi-media presentation on "Kids of Divorce", and the Lamb's Players presentation of "Corrie and Father Ten Boom."

Other Chapel speakers were: Mr. Kent Fishel, Dr. Peter Kreeft, Don Odle, Dr. William Bright, Mr. Harry Blamires, Mr. Don A. Fields, and Mr. James Butcher.

Fall Entertainment

Members of Taylor's student organizations put much time and effort into planning a wide range of social activities for T.U. students. Pete Carlson started the fall activities Freshman Week-end with a very entertaining concert featuring both his Christian and secular songs. Next, the newly initiated freshmen combined with the more experienced upperclassmen to "show their stuff" at the all campus talent show. The first Christian rock concert of the year was City Limits. The Wright Brothers provided a change of pace with their bluegrass country music. DeGarmo & Key, one of the rising Christian rock bands, was also well received by the student body.

Adding an international flair to the fall social activities, the Danish Gym Team made its fourth appearance at Taylor. The United States Marine Band from Washington, D.C. gave a spectacular performance, which included several of the famed John Phillip Sousa's marches. Other concerts that provided an enjoyable break from the academic life included: Michael Iceberg, Taylor's own T.U. Concert Band and Jazz Ensemble, and Noel 'Paul' Stookey and his band Bodyworks. A very special and inspiring concert was given by Edie Rader and Friends.

One of the more unique activities of first semester was the intellectually stimulating "Great Debate" between Dr. Corduan and Dr. Nygren. The topic under debate and discussion was Eternal Security. The debate was very well received, proving that entertainment can be educational.

Parents' Weekend

After the first five weeks of school, Parent's Weekend is looked forward to with great excitement and anticipation. The freshmen, especially, enjoy the opportunity to see Mom and Dad, as well as to show off the campus and to introduce their new friends. The overwhelming response of the parents was evident as they roamed the campus in masses.

Parent's Weekend began with Friday's chapel service. The message was delivered by Dr. Bill Bright, founder and President of Campus Crusade for Christ, International. Friday night the Lamb's Players' Theatre presented "Pardon Me Christian, But Your Old Nature is Showing". The parents and students were up early Saturday morning, for a Family Prayer Breakfast. The Taylor Music Department provided Saturday evening's entertainment. The weekend was drawn to a dramatic close at the Sunday morning worship service. Harold E. Hughes, former U.S. Senator and Governor from Iowa, was the featured speaker. The participation of the parents was deeply appreciated in making this year's Parent's Weekend a success.

For most people, Homecoming 1980 was the weekend of October 24-26. For the planning committee, Homecoming 1980 started in April. The initial group of planners had an enormous task before them, the first step being that of appointing fifteen committee chairmen. Publicity, the country picnic, Dionne Warwick Concert, Coffeehouse, Chapel, etc., are only a few of the committees that were formed to make Homecoming '80 a reality. Throughout the summer months the co-chairmen sent out letters to keep this newly formed group excited and motivated. September was the kick-off month to dig in and get to work. What type of music should we have at the coffee house? Tommy Taylor needs a miniature tux! Where can I get a popcorn machine? Let's get these tickets sold! I need 25 pumpkins for the picnic!?! The tension, fury, and insanity mounted until it happened. To our surprise, the weekend came and went very smoothly. Friday's Homecoming chapel officially started the weekend. It included the traditional Taylor fight song and nostalgic choir. Friday evening was the much talked about concert: Dionne Warwick. Saturday featured an alumni brunch, a country picnic with all the trimmings, a T.U. football game, and Extravaganza '80 in the evening. Sunday's chapel brought a fitting conclusion to the weekend, as Dr. Ted Engstrom presented the message.

Truly, Homecoming 1980 was a memorable weekend, and those who played a part in it are proud . . . and exhausted.

Halloween

That one dark, scary night of the year when all the goblins and ghosts come out of hiding finally arrived on the campus of T.U. Halloween was indeed an eventful night full of mysterious happenings. To build up the anticipation of this haunting night, Morris Hall held their famous Masquerade Party. Witches, monsters, ghosts, you name it, they were there. Next, Dennis James, a widely acclaimed artist on the theatre organ scene today, came to thrill and chill the audience. The black-robed figure jumped out of a coffin to open his performance. What followed was a thrilling combination of a silent horror film with eerie organ accompaniment. With this being his second year at Taylor, the silent movie was, "The Cat and the Canary," a 1927 comedy-horror. The evening of nightmare arrived with SUB's gruesome double feature. The mysteriously dressed students greeted the horror films, "Tales from the Crypt" and "Wait Until Dark." This proved to be a suspenseful evening to climax the frightening and fun Halloween events.

Any member of the Taylor community that took the opportunity to attend the University's production of "See How They Run" knows that it was well worth his time. With its crazy, spontaneous chase scene and the hilarious series of events, the play was very well done.

Proving once more the high quality of an education at Taylor, 1980 graduate Jim Rapson directed the fast-paced comedy with much flair. Keeping all the characters on the small stage of the Little Theater and using them in a purposeful and pleasing way had to be quite a task, but it was successfully done.

Jim's hard work would have gone unnoticed, had it not been for the splendid cast he had to work with—Mike Burchfield as the pompous Reverend Toop; Robin Chernenko as the mischievous Penelope (wife of Reverend Toop); Kathie McCloud as the confused Cockney maid; Dave Shipley as the handsome young serviceman; Julia Shepherd as the snooty, drunken spinster; Randy Wyatt as the composed bishop; Mark Stevens as the bewildered visiting clergyman; Dave Albright as an escaped, violent Russian; and Dave Thompson as the rough Sergeant Towers. Each character was improved upon by the specific qualities of the Taylor student that portrayed them, and the play was marked as another top performance in the 1981 year at Taylor.

Fall Spiritual Emphasis Week

Bob Engel, Dr. Hartman, and Mark Slaughter await the start of a service.

Spring Spiritual Emphasis

Reverend Roger J. Newton

Taylor's Spring Spiritual Emphasis Week was truly an enlightening experience as well as a growing time. Rev. Roger J. Newton was the dynamic speaker from Birkenhead, England who shared with us the Truth in each meeting, February 8th through the 13th. Our speaker believes that the duty of the Christian ministry today is to strive honestly to know what God says in the Scriptures and to endeavor consistently to present these truths to all people.

The theme of Spiritual Emphasis Week, "The Manifesto and the Kingdom of God," gave an excellent basis from which to expand. Rev. Newton first discussed the "Law" of the Kingdom such as, what God is like, what sin is like, what Man is like, and finally what a Christian, is like. Next, the emphasis was placed on the "Life" of the kingdom of God. He spoke of the investment, service, bounty, and entrance to life. Rev. Newton closed the series of messages by dwelling on our "Lord." He asks if we were building our house on the rock or sand?

Many from all over campus were challenged and helped through the Speaker. As one person said, "He put a search-light on our souls, and told us the absolute truth leaving the final decision up to us." His clear message challenged us to give our weaknesses over to the Lord, and let Him use us through His strength. Rev. Newton is committed to a ministry centered on Biblical exposition as a means of sharing the Gospel, as it is based for authoritatively presenting Jesus Christ in the power of the Spirit. The Spirit of the Lord could be felt throughout the week as Rev. Newton presented the messages with power. This Spring Spiritual Emphasis week proved to be a refreshing time to all who attended and endeavored to apply the message presented.

Reverend Newton greets Junior Marilyn Collins after a service.

Randy Stonehill

B Krick

Taylor's winter activity schedule included three major concerts. The first concert of the season was Randy Stonehill, a familiar performer to TU students. His rock music provided a real message to many.

Next, Taylor's own talent took the stage. Barry and Bryan Krick and band combined contemporary and mellow music to entertain the audience. Many of the songs they performed were of their own original creation.

Great anticipation and excitement mounted as the final winter concert neared. Debby Boone, nationally known for both her secular and Christian music, gave an outstanding performance before a sell-out crowd. From her first appearance on the stage Debby Boone captured the attention, respect, and friendship of the audience.

When her shoe strap broke leaving her barefooted for the first half of the show, Debby informed the audience that now she was appropriately dressed for her next number—a country song. The first half of her performance was secular music including a medley of Linda Ronstadt hits. After the first half of the show, John and Vickyo Witty, a Christian comedy team, entertained the audience with several fast-paced situation comedies.

The second half of the concert was very inspirational. Debby sang songs of worship and praise to the Lord. The most moving part of the night was Debby's personal testimony. Her strong faith was apparent as she sang her well-known hit "You Light Up My Life." The evening concluded with a standing ovation for Debby followed by an encore.

The highlight of braving the cold to participate in winter chapels was Black Awareness Week. The Reverend J.C. Williams of Muncie, Indiana was the first to speak on this topic. The series was brought to a close by the Reverend Starlon Washington from Grand Rapids, Michigan, who instructed the student body concerning "Cross Cultural Evangelism."

Christmas

A truly special time of year, the Christmas season fills every heart with joy and happiness. The air is filled with excitement as family and friends anticipate Christmas gatherings and celebrations. At Taylor, the sentiment of the Christmas season captures the attention of all. Caroling, parties, Christmas trees, lights, and presents can be seen and felt throughout the campus.

The spirit of this holiday season began at Taylor with the Repertoire Theatre production of Dickin's A CHRISTMAS CAROL. Much talent and work went into this successful production. Next, the annual candlelighting service warmed the hearts of many. The unity of Christ was felt as everyone joined together in spirit. For this is the true meaning of Christmas, thanksgiving to the Lord for sending His Son to earth. The traditional climax of Taylor's Christmas season is always evident in the Chapel program. The holiday music from the Chorale and orchestra set the stage for the dramatic Sleigh Ride ending. The Christmas events along with the completion of finals create an anticipation for a wonderful Holiday Season for all.

During the month of January, several groups, comprised of students and faculty, left the security of Taylor to explore other parts of the country and other parts of the world. Taking with them their enthusiasm and desire to witness and experience a different culture, the groups returned with more knowledge, understanding and pictures than they probably imagined possible.

One group, of 26 students and professors, spent 20 days in England travelling to Salisbury, Winchester, Canterbury, Oxford, and Stratford-Upon-Avon. In London they saw Big Ben, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, Picadilly Circus, and Harrod's Department store. Weekend excursions took a few to Scotland, Wales, France, and Germany. The pastry shop, Bobbies, Double Decker buses, huge black cabs, and small, fast cars were just a few of the everyday sights in London.

What do you call . . . twelve Taylor students, one prof, a hostel called "Casa delos amigos," wandering around the Museum of Anthropology, climbing the pyramids, buying silver in Taxco, watching cliff divers, and sunning on the beaches of Acapulco? You call it the Taylor Interterm trip to Mexico, that's what! You call it intermediate and capstone Spanish students studying and sightseeing in Mexico City, living with Mexican families frantically memorizing "hablo, hablas, habla . . .," meeting a lot of loving and encouraging people, and above all, having an enjoyable learning experience.

During Inter-term, Dr. Leon Adkison of the System's Dept. took a group of system's majors on a tour of businesses, management, and computer systems in Boston, New York City, and Washington D.C. This year the group was able to attend the Presidential Inauguration, visit with Congressman Hillis, see all the sights on Wall Street, tour Digital Equipment Corp., plus a lot more.

They spent eight days behind the "Iron Curtain" where they visited numerous places connected with Martin Luther's life, had meetings with FDG officials (Communist Youth Organization), got used to people staring at their Ford van and Fiesta, and learned how to keep warm under almost any condition. They studied Ulrich Zwingli and the Anabaptists in Zurich and John Calvin in Geneva. They also had a free day to ski the Swiss Alps in Interlaken, and spent two days sightseeing in Paris.

They had some bags "confiscated" at the Czech border, ate on the Champs Elysses, saw the Buchenwald concentration camp, were only twenty kilometers from where the hostages would be flown into West Germany, and saw Amsterdam at night.

Students Experience World Outside Taylor

Lighthouse members perform at Stunce William's church

Lighthouse is a team of Taylor students who spend the month of January in the Caribbean island of Nassau, Bahamas in a cross-cultural experience of ministry/service. In this tenth consecutive year, eighteen students and two administrators volunteered for Lighthouse ministry to the Bahamas.

We followed Lighthouse alumni of the past year to "luxurious" Joy Bible Camp—located on the island of Nassau—where we established ourselves for a three and one-half week mission project. The camps soon became our home as we made friends with Lori the "frog" and Julia the "rat". To keep things going we had Steve's "Happy Van", may it rest in peace, frosty cold showers, and outdoor eating at its finest.

Each one of us anticipated many great things from God as we planned our programs with singing, puppets, sermons, and clowns. We shared these programs various ways—in churches, schools, street ministries, a hospital, a maximum-security prison, and even a luxury cruise ship called the "Emerald Seas."

We traveled to the Bahamas on a missions project to complete teaching, social work, and religious practicums. Little did we realize the impact it would have on our lives: to grow with God and learn to depend more on Him, to learn about ourselves, to learn about another culture, to learn how to work closely with others, and to share with others what Christ means to us. Lighthouse truly was an experience to remember.

Spring Chapels presented a wide range of topics. Dr. Milo Rediger, one of the first speakers, delivered his address entitled, "You're Servants for Jesus' Sake". Teen Haven, Christian Youth Centers, was the topic of Reverend Bill Drury, founder/director of Christian Youth Services, Inc. Joel and Jo-Anne Taylor both shared the Lords calling in their life to serve as short term missionaries in Taiwan.

An extremely entertaining Chapel was presented by the Asbury Seminarians, a 35 voice male chorus of students from Asbury Theological Seminary. Another stimulating Chapel service was given by Miss Catherine Meeks, who is co-ordinator of Women's Prison Project and Afro-American Studies Program at Mercer University.

The annual All-Campus Communion Service on Good Friday was one of the years highlights. A unique Chapel with the theme, "Process and Permanence", was presented by Communication and Theatre Arts majors. The final chapel speaker was Taylor's President-elect, Dr. Greg Lehman, who spoke on Christian leadership and his plans for carrying out his new role as Taylor's future President.

Spring Concerts

Steve Beeson

This year's Spring Concerts included two major concerts and three mini-concerts. The first major concert of the season was the Imperials. The Imperials returned to Taylor to perform before a sellout crowd. Their contemporary Christian music excited the crowd throughout the performance. The audience showed their appreciation by giving the Imperials a standing ovation at the end of the concert.

The final major concert was also well received. The Sweet Comfort Band entertained with its hard rock music. The crowd was at times unruly and very emotional. Sweet Comfort Band provided a change of pace.

The three mini-concerts provided an opportunity for Taylor students to display their talents. The four concerts were: Steve Beeson, Gary Alms and Morning Star.

The quality of this year's concerts was due to the combined effort and careful planning of Dave Albright and Lowell Haines. These concerts have been enjoyed not only by Taylor students and faculty but also by Taylor alumni, friends and family, and the surrounding communities.

In February, this village came to life for the audiences, and for the actors under the direction of Ollie Hubbard and Mike Burchfield, with Steven Town and Al Harrison directing the musical portions of the play. Besides offering three nights of laughter and tears to the Taylor Community, "Fiddler" was an experience in fellowship which won't be easily forgotten by anyone involved

Miracle Worker

A miracle was reenacted on the stage of the Taylor University theatre during the spring performance of William Gibson's award winning play, THE MIRACLE WORKER. The drama tells the true story of the attempts and eventual success of a persistent, strong-willed teacher, Annie Sullivan, to impart the deaf and blind Helen Keller with the gift of language. The principal "miracle" occurs at the climax of the play, when Annie, played by Ellen Eckert, spells the word "water" into Helen's hand while holding it under a stream of gushing water. Helen (Kathy Shepperd) experiences a flash of insight as she finally comprehends the connection between the letters spelled into her hand and the water flowing through her fingertips. Although this is the major event from which the play derives its title, several other transformations occur in the lives of the other characters. Captain Keller, Helen's outspoken father, portrayed by Dave Shipley, learns to recognize and appreciate the opinions of others. Mrs. Keller (Linda Britton) realizes that her overprotective love for Helen is destructive. Kurt Bullock, as the insolent James Keller, advances in his search for identity. And Annie herself learns how to love and how to deal with her past. Under the direction of Jesse Rousselow, THE MIRACLE WORKER has transpired into an emotionally uplifting and stirring dramatic success.

In lieu of Dr. Milo Rediger's retirement in July, 1981, the search for a new president to succeed him began back in November, 1980. After much research and deliberation, invitations were extended to Dr. David LeShana, President of George Fox College in Oregon, and Dr. Lon Randall, President of Malone College in Ohio, to meet with student leaders and the board of trustees to discuss their possible interest in being considered candidates for Taylor's President.

LeShana and Randall were interviewed by students and administration in early December. The Board decided on LeShana and offered the position to him. Dr. LeShana turned it down, saying he did not feel the Lord had released him from his commitment to George Fox College.

In late January the search began again. Dr. Gregg Lehman, Taylor's Executive Vice President was selected to be a Presidential candidate and went through a rigorous schedule of discussions and interviews, again, with the Board and student leaders. This procedure continued through early March when Lehman was offered the position and he accepted. A unanimous vote by the Board on March 7 officially elected Dr. Lehman, with his excellent qualifications and 7 years of experience in teaching and administrative positions in the Taylor program, to be the next President of Taylor University.

On April 3, 1981, 1200 high school students from all over the United States poured onto the Taylor campus exhausted from their trips and yet full of excitement and energy as they faced the weekend. The Taylor students greeted them with open arms and eager anticipation after a long year of hard work and planning. From these first moments on, God's presence and working was evident as it had been all year.

The theme, SET FREE, taken from John 8:32 "And you shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free", permeated each facet of the weekend: through the colorful drappings and lettering hung across the Chapel stage, through the dynamic and "singable" theme song written by John Moser and Tim Johnson, through the words of challenge and commitment so effectively and meaningfully communicated by the speaker Ron Hutchcraft and finally through the interaction and discussion carried on in the discussion groups, in the dorm rooms and on the sidewalks.

And through it all God moved in subtle and yet powerfully miraculous ways.

Youth Conference offered the kids a variety of stimulating, challenging, and fun activities including the Super Star Competition which took place under threatening skies. As God held back the rain, all over the campus, kids could be seen spinning wildly around bats, screaming and yelling for their teams, and scrambling for the finish line in the multi-faceted obstacle course. The kids were also able to experience an evening with musician Steve Camp, as he raised the roof with songs like "A Feelin's Happening" and shared his testimony. The movie "The Hiding Place" was another highlight of the weekend.

Hundreds of students made commitments to new life, revival and freedom in Christ. This was the purpose for Youth Conference for which many hours were spent in prayer which God answered in ways that were never dreamed of.

Inter-Class Council, ICC, is an organization that coordinates class competition. It gives the students an opportunity to be a participant rather than a spectator. The Council consists of all the class officers and the Director of Student Programs (Lowell Haines). In the Fall, this group plans the Tug-of-War, Couples Soccer, and various other activities that create interest among the student body.

In the Spring, ICC took on a fund raising project that supported 30 students in the Dominican Republic and Haiti. Money was raised by sponsoring a 24 hour bike-runathon in which 60 students (30 girls and 30 guys) were able to raise close to $1300 through pledges.

ICC also sponsored the major event of the year: Taylathon. The events for this weekend included the Tarzan and Jane contest, couples softball, canoe race, trike race and the 64 lap bike race. The Seniors (class of '81) for the first time were competitive in inter-class competition, by dominating the Fall activities, namely the tug-of-war. However, the Freshmen and Sophomores gave them a run for it on Taylathon weekend. The Freshmen won the bike race which was a first in five years and they even managed to win the majority of the points for Taylathon which was a first ever. However, it was not enough to defeat the Seniors, who took the class trophy for overall competition. The final point standings were as follows: Seniors—1175, Sophomores—965, Freshmen—940, Juniors—850. As mentioned earlier, this was the overall competition which made them second to none in '81.

Sun Shines on Graduates

For the first time in eight years, the sun shone brightly on a Taylor University graduation. While people were pleased with this occurrence alone, they were also treated to a thought provoking message in the baccalaureate service by Senator Mark Hatfield of Oregon. In his message, he stressed the idea of building a new Jerusalem. With the world in the condition it is today, Christians and the church must start to use their influence—not so we can be successful, but so we can be faithful.

The commencement service was the last one presided over by Dr. Milo Rediger. After a speech by class representative Dwight Jacobson, the degrees were awarded, Dr. Rediger honored his wife, and he passed the gavel to Taylor's next president, Gregg Lehman.

The graduates filed outside for pictures and goodbyes. But, hey, seniors, don't dwell on the past. Keep looking forward. Don't ever say good-bye forever. Just wait, you'll see your friends again. God Bless you all.

Football: Perseverance

"This year's Taylor football team was a group of young men that were committed to giving their best physically, mentally, and spiritually in the toughest small college conference in the nation."—Coach Sam Sample

A final season record of 2-7 is disappointing. One of the major goals of any athletic team is to win; when that does not happen, it makes the whole season hard to take. Yet there are positive points to the story. The Hoosier-Buckeye Collegiate Conference was rated as the strongest NAIA Division II conference in football this year. Playing against teams of that caliber week after week taught the Trojans many lessons. They became better football players because of it, learning to give more of themselves than they thought to be possible. In many ways, that is more important than outscoring the opponent.

On October 18, however, Taylor travelled to Manchester College and came home with their first victory under their belts, a 21-7 win. They beat Earlham a week later, playing .500 ball in their last four games.

Playing .500 ball is the goal for next year, and if the Trojans can avoid serious injuries—they had 19 players out with them this year—that goal could be attainable.

Jim Long and Rob Johnson were the captains of this year's team, and Long was also the MVP. John Ozmun was given HBCC All-Conference honors, while Tim Nordberg, Jim Long, and Ozmun made the NAIA = 21 All-District team.

"When these runners were all well at the same time, as exhibited at the Conference meet, no team at our level of competition could come close to them."—Coach George Glass

These words of Coach Glass describe both the beauty and the problem of the 1980 Cross Country team. When they were physically healthy, they were unstoppable. But within a 10-14 day period, all the lead runners became ill, and it was not until the Conference meet that they were all healthy again.

What this resulted in was a lot of frustration; this was probably the best Cross Country team in Taylor history, yet they did not have the best record by any means. At the NAIA District meet, 4 out of 7 runners were out, and at the Little State meet, 3 out of 7 runners could not compete. By the Conference meet, however, the team was back at full strength, and all the frustration and sickness was forgotten as the Trojans came out on top.

Walter Bliss had a great sophomore year, winning individual honors in the NAIA meet, the Indiana Little State, and the Conference meet; that is the first time anyone from any college has ever accomplished such a feat. Bliss was also voted the team's Most Valuable Runner. Senior Captain Frank Grothenhuis won the coveted Golden Guts Award for the second consecutive year.

"The women of this year's field hockey team demonstrated an excellent spirit of team and also the attitude of giving and doing their very best."— Coach Diana Jones.

Field hockey is not a popular sport. Not many schools have a program in field hockey, so in order to make a full schedule, Taylor is forced to play many of their games against Division I and Division II schools like Ball State, Indiana University, and Notre Dame, even though the Trojans are a Division III team. Competition is tough, but Taylor was able to beat all the Division III schools they played, and they lost their three games to Division II schools all in overtime. Although the Division III schools generally overpowered the Trojans, Coach Jones felt that the team learned their most valuable lesson from their defeats. That is, they learned to accept whatever circumstances came about, knowing that all things happen for a purpose.

The hardest part of the season to accept had to be the four overtime defeats. Overtime is rare in field hockey in itself, but losing all four was heart-breaking since changing those losses to wins would have transformed a 4-11 season into a winning 8-7 year. So close, yet so far away. To turn things around next year, the Trojans will need to show more strength on offense, and with only two seniors leaving the team, they just may be able to do that.

The captains of this year's team were Jill Howard and Dot Ludlow. Most Improved Player honors went to Barb Martin while the Most Valuable Players were Karen Vitko on offense and Dot Ludlow on defense. Vitko was also the team's leading scorer.

The 1980-81 Taylor Men's Tennis team once again dominated the HBCC.

Led by junior Jim Huber, the team took first place at the Districts and Conference meets. In conference matches, the Trojan netters finished undefeated with an 8-0 record. Huber finished the season with a 17-0 record in singles and a 15-1 record in double matches with John Rexroth. Huber was Conference and District singles champion, and he and Rexroth were HBCC doubles champions. "We're looking forward to next year because we know now what to expect and the team will have more experience and depth"—Coach Sue Herbster.

The 1980-81 year was definitely a building one for the Taylor women's tennis team. They began the year with little experience; there was only one returning letterman on the team. Although the Trojane's record was only 0-8-1, four of their losses were only by one match. The entire team will return next season with the exception of Nancy Wallace, the #2 player.

Lynn Shepley was the #1 singles and doubles player, and Ruth Heidtman led the team with a singles record of 9-2 at the #4 position.

Volleyball: Championship

"I would describe this year's team as one body of Christian ladies working together to glorify the Lord with their volleyball skills."—Coach Mary Edna Glover

On September 30, the Taylor volleyball team's record stood at 2-5. Yet on November 15, this same team could claim a 25-14 record, and the state championship. This is called peaking at the right time, and it is interesting to see what it was that enabled this team to do it. First of all, the Trojans had the necessary raw skill to play good volleyball. But that alone does not win matches. Attitude and team spirit are important, and this team was strong in this area; they played with a great deal of maturity, never being selfish, and never letting themselves get down in tight spots. There were slumps and there were injuries, but when it came time for the important matches, they were able to work together toward the victory.

Cleone Heebner was captain of the squad with Kathy Donovan as co-captain. Heebner and Jean Culbertson shared the MVP award, while Melodie Cripe and Ronda Gentis were both honored as the Most Improved Players.

"We were an unpolished and undeveloped group of guys who, through a lot of hard work and dedication, developed into a fine wrestling team."—Coach Dana Sorenson

After the dismal 1979-80 season, prospects for a good Taylor wrestling team in 1980-81 did not look bright. Then when it became clear that there would only be around 14 team members, things looked even worse. Yet despite all this, the team began the season by winning the Little State Tournament; this was important because it got the Trojans off to a good start and encouraged the wrestlers to work hard.

It paid off, as Taylor won four out of their first six dual matches, including a big win over Central State of Ohio. They also performed well at the Midwest Classic placing 9th out of 20 teams. They went through a short slump after this, a time when injuries and sickness caught up with them. They recovered in February, however, in time to win the District 21 championship and the HBCC championship, with five individual champions.

The future looks good for Taylor wrestling as the whole team, with the exception of Scott Dodd, will be returning next year. The Most Valuable Wrestler for the 1980-81 year was Scott Dodd at 190 lbs. who also placed 7th at the National Tournament and was named All-American. Greg Fetzer was selected as the Honorary Captain of the squad, Mark Rabine won the Most Improved Wrestler Award, and Brent Thomas was given the Blood, Sweat, and Tears Award.

"This basketball team was a group of guys who continually found ways to give more of themselves in order to meet the challenges that arose along the way."—Coach Paul Patterson

The 1980-81 Trojans met some tough challenges. They suffered some key injuries, yet they finished the season with the best record in the HBCC that Taylor has had to date. The team went through a slump after Christmas, losing some close road games, yet they recovered down the stretch, winning enough games to make the play-offs. There they lost a tough game to Huntington in the second round, but by making the play-offs they may have been showing us just a taste of things to come.

On their west coast trip over Christmas break, the Trojans showed that they were able to compete with the best teams on their schedule as they came home with victories over both Westmont and Biola. With a lot of good experienced players returning next year, and with the luck of a good off-season, Taylor should be able to start defeating the best teams on a regular basis.

Before he suffered a knee injury, Mark Wright had a great year, and he was honored by being selected to the HBCC All-Conference team.

"Being a first year coach is a new and challenging experience. When I look back on this year, not only do I remember that God allowed us to be second in the state, but I will also treasure the memories and experiences of many special friendships."—Coach Sue Herbster

In a coach's first year, there are usually many adjustments that must take place that prevent a team from playing to its full potential. Yet under the direction of Coach Herbster, the 1980-81 Trojanes overcame a slow start and ended the season by being state runners-up.

Taylor was a tall team, with three players over 5'11" in height, and this enabled them to control the ball consistently. The Trojanes also utilized an offense that was simple, but effective with Cindy Harper playing the point guard position and doing a good job of maintaining stability.

Harper was voted the Most Valuable Player on the squad; Brenda Hillman and Deb Behr were selected as the team captains.

"Taylor's 1981 baseball team can be described as made up of talented youth, as 11 of 22 members were freshmen. Often the starting lineup had freshmen on the mound, catching, at shortstop and second, and in two of the outfield spots"—Coach Larry Winterholter.

Youth was the emphasis of the 1981 Trojans. This gives a team enthusiasm, fresh attitudes, and the prospect of a bright future; it also usually means that mistakes will occur that experienced players will not make. These errors, walks, and mental lapses hurt Taylor in some critical games.

The team ended up with an overall record of 15-19, and an HBCC record of 7-7; these both represent considerable improvement. The team also played the toughest schedule in recent years, and they were able to split doubleheaders with powerhouses Purdue and Anderson. The Trojans batted .279 as a team, led by Mark Wright's .411 average. The entire pitching staff returns for 1982 along with much of the remaining squad. Their added experience should enable them to get off to a better start and help them to improve even more.

"This year's team was a mixture of veterans and rookies, which after much hard work, frustration, and growth, combined to be the best Division III softball team in Indiana."—Coach Diana Jones

The 1981 Trojane softball team was made up of many freshman and inexperienced players; coupled with lots of rainouts which affected both games and practices, this resulted in a lot of inconsistent performances. Some days they would play great ball while other days they would be completely off.

The last two weeks of the season saw the team come together, however, as the outfield—a problem area all year—finally gelled into a strong unit. The Trojanes went into the State Tournament in fine shape and came out of it with their second consecutive State Championship.

Carole Hoel was chosen as the Most Valuable Player for the 1981 season; Kathy Cassetty was given the Most Improved Player award.

"The 1981 Track and Field season will be best remembered by exciting people and their performances. People such as Bill Bauer and his willingness to help coach; Larry Brown and Walter Bliss and the other middle distance men; Tim Davis and the shot put; and of course, the combination of Grotenhuis (Frank) and Shevlot (Rob)." —Coach George Glass 1981 seemed to be the year of the middle distance runners for the Trojans. Walter Bliss and Larry Brown broke HBCC records several times between them, and the other middle distance men were tough, too, with Rob Shevlot and Phil Treckman joining Bliss and Brown as HBCC champions.

The problem was that the rest of the team was not as strong or as deep as this. Consequently, Taylor sometimes swept most of the running events at a meet, yet they would still be soundly defeated because of problems in the sprints and the field events. All of this resulted in Taylor's weakest showing at the Conference meet in 19 years; yet this also shows the Trojans' strength since that "worst" performance was solid third place.

Track: Dedication

"Dedicated, loyal, frustrated, fun loving hardworkers are the words that describe the 1981 Ladies Track and Field team."—Coach Mary Edna Glover

The 1981 Taylor women's track team had only 15 competitors, but they were a talented and dedicated group. Very strong in the short relays, and tough in the hurdles, the Trojanes broke school records in the 400 meter and 800 meter relays, and in the 100 meter hurdles. Sandy Nagy was strong in the field events, and Lori Shepard tied the school high jump record.

With their small numbers, however, depth was a problem for Taylor; inexperience also hurt the Trojanes since they had a lot of freshmen and first year runners. Lori Shepard and Dena Strasbaugh were chosen as the Most Valuable Runners for the 1981 team; Sandy Nagy was given the Most Valuable Field Events competitor award.

"Our golf team didn't do as well in 1981 as we have in previous years, but we still had a great year. We finished 2nd in several large tournaments and won most of our small matches."—Coach Sample

The 1981 Trojan golf team started the season by travelling to Florida. The met stiff competition there, playing warm weather teams, and they won only 1 out of 4 dual matches there. It was a good experience, however, and it was a fun time for the team.

Back up north, they improved by defeating Marion College by 2 strokes. They were successful against Marion the whole year as they would go on to beat them two more times. The team played consistently well except at the Huntington invitational and the Conference meet. Chester Scott finished the season as the most successful individual golfer for Taylor.

The Champs!

For the first time in the history of man, Swallow Robin won the overall intramural competition standings. Fighting off strong challenges from 2nd Morris and 1st West, Swallow won championships in cross country, wrestling, track, and softball; they also collected points for competing in all sports.

Even though softball for the women was not able to be completed, 3rd West Olson was awarded the championship in the final standings.

2nd South doesn't contain your ordinary gals, they're more than just lovable pals. They're full of fun and adventure. A little bit of popcorn and a diet thirst quencher. They range from Rocky Horror Attenders to Jazzercise benders. From Jumpers to Joggers. To 3 a.m. cloggers. From Sha-Na-Na Singers to Florida Wingers. For all kinds of parties to have a good time, 2nd South has the girls that shine.

3rd South

Would you be able to make it on 3rd South? Could you cope with 31 other girls in the bathroom at 6:30 a.m., and still be on time for your 8:00 class? If you have always wondered if you could handle the rigors of dorm life, ask yourself these questions.

We guarantee it is not exaggerated:

1. What would you do with a floor that is 34% freshmen, and 97% of them are insane?

2. What action would you take when 5 girls take up over 90% of all campus phone calls? Or better yet, who would you kill when you got a note on your board saying "some guy called . . . no message"?

3. What would you do with a P.A. that wanders around thinking "I wonder what the next trauma will be?"

4. Could you handle being awakened every time you got to the good part of your dream by suitemates (freshmen) having cardiacs when a guy called?

5. How would you handle four engaged girls, and one girl that calls herself "The Dateless Wonder"?

6. How about the doughnut runs to Marion at Midnight, the constant aroma of burnt popcorn, and the TAB addiction?

If you think you would have no problems living with all our quirks, I'm sure you are a very well balanced, emotionally mature, stable person. But then, frankly, I don't think 3rd South could handle you!!!!

4th South

Dear Mom and Dad,

Here is the letter I promised to write you about life on 4th South. Life on 4th could be summed up as food, fun, and fellowship. Wait just a minute, I think I smell popcorn. I'm back now. It was popcorn, followed by a trip to Hoe's. Having to climb all those stairs has given us all healthy appetites.

We have a few floor phrases, such as "another one bites the dust" when something ceases to function. So far this year it has been applied to several fish, one car, and most recently a popcorn popper. Football isn't a phrase, it's a way of life with intramurders, (oops, I mean intramurals!). Our record was good, but more importantly we had fun.

The best part of 4th South is not the food, or the fun, but the fellowship. We tease and love each other like sisters because we are sisters. When someone says they are praying for you, you can bet they really mean it. After living up here, I'm not sure if it's more fun to give or to get hugs. Sometimes I think that God put a little bit of heaven on Earth in the form of 4th South. Hey, maybe that's why we are called "almost Heaven." Personally, I still think it's because of all those stairs.

Well, I've got stuff to do so I'll close now. Feel free to send money, food, or both as soon as possible.

Your Daughter

English Cellar

Next time you come to English Hall
Just follow the staircase down,
And you will meet thirty
Of the nicest ladies around.

We all are individuals—
Different as night and day.
Yet each of us is lovable
In our own peculiar way.

We combine and form the floor
Best known as "The Cellar" to all,
Which contrary to popular belief
Has windows in each outer wall.

Nothing ever strange occurs
Unless you want to count
The disappearance of the stall walls
That some people are proud about!

Or there's the time two girls
Found their belongings in the hall,
Draped from the phone and ceiling
And some hung from wall to wall.

Then at our Valentine banquet
With everyone looking her best,
Two of us showed up together—
One in a man's pants, jacket, and vest.

No, there is never a dull moment
Here in the separate "Cellar Land,"
And none of us would leave it
Because we think it's just grand.

1st South English

COLLEEN OLSEN a P.A. on First South English, was admiring the collage around the mirror in suite 101, when suddenly she was pulled through the looking GLASS. She found herself in the land of MITCHELL. This land was full of cuddly teddy BEHRS. She walked toward some bears that were eating French LE CLAIRS for their afternoon snack. She didn't know that these bears were important bears. One was the MARSHALL of the town, one was a professional baseball PILCHER, and the last was a STEWARTIST on an airline. She talked to these bears for a while and found that these bears were KEENER than any she had met before. Soon MOORE bears came along. There were the twin teddys BOWMAN and GOWMAN, they lived in WESTBROOK Park, the richest estate in MITCHELL land. They all hopped on springs (that's how they traveled there) to take a tour of the land. The one COLLEEN jumped on SPRINGER to the front of the twins. She listened closely to what the twins were saying, but could only hear TIBBETTS of information. The twins decided to take her to the EULER Estate by way of HOPKIN'S lane and past BLOOMQUIST flowers. "Oh CRIPES!", said BOWMAN, "We forgot to eat, let's stop at McNALLY'S for a Big Mac." They soon arrived at EULER Estate and rang the doorbell. "USELDING" it echoed. "Over here," said the butler. "We've been expecting you. Come in." "I want you to meet Ms. FLEENER," said the twins, "and her son (ANDERSON). Oh, look, here is JOHN-SON." "Nice to meet you," said Colleen, as the twins BECKoned her over to meet Ms. KERSTEN, who was an expert on bees. Her favorite type was the PRIBE. COLLEEN exclaimed she was having a DEVINE time, but she had to get back to check in on her girls at First South. They told her that all she would have to do is WISHON a star to return. While COLLEEN was gone her girls thought of this lovely story. Thanks "C" for a good year!!!!

This is not going to be your average run-of-the mill wing story, mainly because this is not your average run-of-the mill wing. No, instead of being TOLD which wing is being talked about, let's just see if you can guess, okay? Fine, here we go. Now, first of all, we're composed of: 48 legs, 48 arms, 240 fingers and toes, 24 bodies, and approximately weigh a total of 102, 875 lbs. We own a total of: 7 blondes, 1 red head, and 16 brunettes. A girl's wing you say? Hey, you're not too dense, but then, you had a 50-50 chance. I'll give you some tougher clues now. We have the only P.A. on campus whose favorite saying is "Blow it off!" The owner of the world's largest belly button lint collection? Oh, c'mon, let's not get crude. We're the ONLY wing on campus that had a catered, candlelight Christmas dinner. A rich wing you think? BOO—you're getting colder. We're not real musically inclined, and it's not unusual to walk out in the hall and get pounded by a hockey puck, or some other dangerous UFO. No, Taylor doesn't have a zoo, quit trying to be humorous. We support our own TV show, I mean, without us General Hospital would most likely go off the air. No, we're not a bunch of old "soapies"—but you're getting closer. Well, only a couple more little clues and I'll end this torture. We do all the "normal" activities that all the other wings do—you know, things like: eat tons of popcorn per night, go to Hoe's at every possible chance, throw the PA in the shower, have pajama parties and make donuts, etc. However, no other wing can do all these ordinary things in the same quite unique way. All this seems to add up to a nice, normal mental institution, right? Hey, you guessed it! Cause that's just another name for Second South English.

Second North . . . laughter, friends, good times, close sharing, uproar, quiet moments, and beautiful memories. The unity and fun experiences of a great wing are sometimes hard to express to others. To name just a few of the activities of the year . . . Italian rooftop party, semi-formal dinner at the D.C. with 3rd Morris, roller skating, ice cream, fruit and popcorn parties, pumpkin carving, traditional visit to One Accord, crafts demonstration, Angels and Mortals, Christmas party, trip to the Gentiles, Bible studies, marriage instruction, Israel presentation, progressive dinner, bowling, party at the Glass house, snowball fights, doughnut sale, pigging out and wing diet, and believe it or not, studying.

New faces, funny places, schemes and dreams, crushes, creating ambitions and life long goals. Second North . . . a group which has grown through tears and fears, reached new horizons and gained new heights individually and collectively. Lives in which friendships and memories will be cherished forever and shared dreams and feelings remembered always in each heart. The bond of closeness will never be forgotten as Second North branches out into the paths of life.

There were some times when we all needed a friend;
And we were never sure who we would find.

We knew that there was someone
He would send
To guide us through some problem or hard time.

There were a lot of good times
to recall:

Popcorn poppers popping through the night,

Trails of legs and chili wall to wall,

Cookies and ice cream beckoning—
what a sight!

And yet there's more to us than meets the mouth—

Icy showers, sending flowers
(dead or alive),

Midnight papers, phone calls
—north or south—

To list a few examples from our lives.

These serve to make our English pride much better

As we live and dwell on Second Center.

3rd Center has been an active and unified wing this year. (One of our favorite things to do together is eat as evidenced by our many trips to One Accord).

One of the most rewarding times together is our bible studies on Tuesday nights. Every week we would take time out to share with each other, pray for each other, encourage one another and give praises to God in learning more about Him.

When it comes to sports, we aren't lacking interest in that area either. Any given night of the week you're sure to find at least several of the Third Center women working out in the Nautilus Room (Hey guys . . . Look Out!) We were also undefeated in "Inter-murder" basketball.

All in all we're a pretty darn fun wing . . . I sure wouldn't trade it for another.

3rd South English

Third South English—the ultimate in the “Land of the Giants” (Jane, Lisa, Sarah, Dawn, Karen, Mitch, Jenny, Ronda, and Chris). If you come up to our wing and you don’t see someone ducking to get through a door then it must be one of those cute little bean sprouts!

We’ve had fun times together this year. Donut runs, cheering for the Phillies, munching out at Siciliano’s, going to One Accord with seven people in a VW (let us not forget Gay’s special place in the trunk!), and tons of other crazy times. Then there’s Mom’s T.V. den (good for crying over movies and rearranging the room), Chappies Bible studies, the permanent “gone fishing” sign on Gay’s door, “Dial a Joke,” and . . . “This is Gina. Do you have my mom hostage?! Give her back!!” It’s been fun being crazy together and a year we’ll never forget. In the words of our most wise and eldest freshmen, “Do! Do! Do!—Oh, you do, do you?!”

Oh, we are the girls who live on First West,
We're not only good in fact we're the best!!!
Our books will stay stacked in the bookcases with care,
In hope that we somehow will learn what is there
Yes, we will be faced with books not yet read,
While visions of popcorn dance in our heads
With K.J. in her kerchief and Jennifer in her cap,
They had just settled their brains for a study-break nap.
When on down the hall there arose such a clatter,
They sprang from their rooms to see what was the matter
Away to the bathroom they flew like a flash,
Tore open the door and let out a gasp.
The commotion of the bathroom was enough of a sight
But Jen, Dort, and Rox were wet from their fight.
Now what to their wondering eyes should appear
But little Kater-Bater as viewed from the rear!
Now on down the hall there was such a commotion
Of jump ropes and arms and legs all in motion.
More rapid than eagles we fly down the hall
In hopes that the phone is finally our call.
For Shari or Sharon,
Or Kathy or Karen,
Or Gena or Janet, or Jenny or Jan.
In spite of our wishing it was all just a folly,
For of course we all knew it would be for Polly!!
Beth came out of her room with Bible in hand
Shouted, "Bible study," and everyone ran.
Patty, Tami, and Jill were all in their usual place,
Acting like "children" with paper and paste.
Among them sat Mindy with BRIDE magazines galore,
While dreaming of the one she loves and adores.
Now over in the gym there's those who love to compete,
They're not called "jocks," but known as "athletes"
You'll see Janet shooting the rim or Laurie giving a cheer,
Or Amy, Lori, Mel and Ruth running quite near
Now Linda and Kathy are so enthusiastic,
They're really into exercising and being spasmatic.
In one field you'll see Phyllis and Linda stand and gawk,
At robins and blue jays and occasionally a hawk
But Dana, Gail, and Nancy have other ways of getting some joy,
By scoping at the DC for all the cute boys.
There's Mary Anne and Judy who are fantastic in art,
While Shari, Linda, Sharon, and Marcie sing from their hearts.
Now back in the wing there's plenty of pranks in the hall,
With Lynette and Gena in charge of it all.
In the lobby will be Shelly and Julie with a heart throb,
While Karen sits in her room and thinks about Rob
In the Kitchen where there's always some food in the making,
You're sure to find Jan in there baking.
And wherever there's food to be found,
Karen Gerent will be somewhere around
When it comes to early birds there's Vicki and Bever,
I wonder if they sleep, in fact, maybe never.
Oh, and yes, we have our very own clown,
For there sure to be laughter with Marilyn around
This year's been fantastic and even first rate,
But with our new P.A.'s, Ny and Miki, next year will be great
Oh, I'm sure that this wing doesn't compare with the rest.
After all we're none other than FIRST WEST and FIRST BEST!!!

1st West Olson

Only on Second East Olson can one have the unique experience of opening her door and having an apple (frisbee, etc.) whiz by her face, walking down the hall to the multi-stereo sound of "Another One Bites the Dust," hearing Christmas music in October, or waking up in the middle of the night because of someone screaming "raid—get your buckets!"

We were blessed (?) this year with 18 rowdy new sisters (or adelphi—our name in Greek). We all got to know each other on a retreat at Gull Lake Bible Camp in Michigan at the beginning of the year. The weekend was highlighted with skits ("two for five"), food, games, and a quiet time alone by the lake.

During the year we worked hard to try to maintain our reputation as intramural champs, however, "the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak!" We also had a rollerskating party at Skateaway, went to One Accord as a wing, gave a hayride party (we apologize to our cleaning ladies), planned a Christmas party, and created our famous "Second East Christmas Street" of colorful shops and lighted doorways. Most importantly, we strived to make our sisterhood a reality, as in the past. As a result we have laughed together, studied together, not studied together, cried together, and grown together in the Lord.

2nd West Olson

What would Taylor University be without Second West Olson? a lot calmer, that's for sure! With our successful raids and serenade attempts we have certainly left our mark, and if you could survive freshman initiation you deserved to live on the wing. Some of our other activities include a "wild and crazy" pumpkin party and pick-a-date.

We accommodate several Christian Ed. majors with philosophical minds pondering such questions as "What is man" and coming up with the only logical answer . . . "we like him", as well as several music minded girls who are usually at their best at two o'clock in the morning.

One of the neatest things about our wing was the strong sense of oneness and support in prayer.

As a smaller wing, we are very close. It's natural to drop everything for a small gathering over a bowl of popcorn, around a TV, or just to talk in someone's room or in the hall. We started out the year by going camping at Turkey Run State Park where those of us who went became better acquainted and encountered wild raccoons and state college men at our campsite.

Through out the semester, small social gatherings with a guys floor allowed us to become familiar with the male population next door: ice cream social with 3rd Center, hayride with 1st East, and bowling with 2nd Center (all of Wengatz). The best part is the openness and togetherness we can feel in our own little wing. It's been a great dorm year.

"... discipline yourself for the purpose of Godliness . . . For it is for this we labor and strive, because we have fixed our hope on the living God, who is the saviour of all men, especially of the believers. Prescribe and teach these things. Let no one look down on your youthfulness, but rather in speech, conduct love, faith, and purity, show yourselves an example of those who believe."

Third West Olson

What is 3rd West Olson? Why, it's the best of course—best in intramural football among other brilliant achievements. The personnel isn't bad either. The "core" was worried when we heard that twenty-six (that's right, 26) new freshmen would be invading our turf. However, this wing has grown to become a very close-knit gang of girls. We all have different personalities and interests but we can put those aside and, thanks to Chaplain Dee Ann, have very enRICHing Bible studies. Trips to Old Brick House (burp), birthday parties for everyone, and pop corn study breaks led us to plan our future careers as fat models. Great P.A.'s (Colleen and Janice), secret sisters, and Angel Mortal week represent the fellowship we've had. A hayride with Swallow, gym night, the Christmas party, and the annual Progressive Dinner with our favorite pick-a-date are examples of our entertainment. Jam sessions in Garda's room, back-rubs, find the partitions to the john stalls had mysteriously disappeared, cold showers at any hour, and hearing "Ann Neuhauser . . . phone!" are normal everyday occurrences. Bumper (you cutie), members of the Taylor jogging association, "food . . . sleep . . . Kenny," and romance but no dates because well, all know, dating is non-existent here at good 'ole T.U. "GRACE OLSON LIVES!"

1st Morris

The curious thing about 1st Morris was that there always seemed to be something in need of repair.

Whether it were painting a wall, fixing a busted water pipe or patching up our beloved asbestos ceiling, maintenance could claim "SM 1" as their home away from home.

The one part of our floor that never needed doctoring was our closeness to each other. We shared silly times—the phone pirates, the Roach of the Week Club, the Amityville Shower—and serious times—Bible studies and prayer groups. At all times though we grew together, each striving to see the path God had planned for us.

In spite of midnight visits from the Fearmonger and the shock of being burned beyond recognition in the shower, we all emerged more confident about who we were and what God intended us to be.

2nd Morris

80-81 year on Second Morris has been one of its more eventful ones in the past few years. Highlighted by numerous pranks and shenanigans in the lady's dorms. Unbeknownst to our own P.A.'s Ha, Ha, Ha. Other activities were: Scope-a-date, Freshman Welcome, Professional Wrestling Night, Floor Banquet, Skating Party, Swimming Party and Movies on the floor.

Second Morris as usual is in the race for the intramural championship. The 80-81 year will be remembered as a crazy and fun one. If something mischievous happened on Campus, you can bet Sammy II had a part in it!

3rd Morris

The Brotherhood of Third Morris is a tradition. The year has offered a variety of activities—Pirate Night, the Christmas party, Shiek night, rook games and fumbles galore. Different afflictions have struck swiftly and unexpectedly—farkle mania, hoosier hysteria, and Phillies fever, are a few. Intramural participation flourished as the guys showed plenty of Spirit. The year has gone by quickly and the tradition lives on.

4th Morris

Fourth Morris, better known as "The Penthouse," began the fall term with a large new crop of freshmen, wanting to experience the fullest that Fourth could offer. Did They? . . . You decide. All of the "elite" members of the Penthouse shared in activities such as:

- Duff's on Sunday
- Alumni Roller-Skating Party
- Hay Ride with 1st North
- All Hall water battle
- Almost Probation for water battle
- 3 P.A.s
- 3 "gigs" (supplement floor fund)
- Talent show togas
- No dividers in the "Johns". Complete loss of Privacy.
- Christmas Party with Street Scenes
- "Reserved" seating during Chapel
- Freshmen Birthday Parties?
- Snow Football

Fourth Morris was rarely quiet. But it was a good year.

First East Wengatz

Just as it has been in the past, First East turned out another great wing. There was a great deal of new people but they quickly became a part of this close-knit wing. The dorm was our home where everything imaginable happened. From late-night card games, to just a little bit of relaxation and enjoyment. It was a year we'll look back on with fond memories: having a good time in intramurals, enjoying the fellowship of nightly devotions, making popcorn, lasagne dinners, boring wing meetings, or just sittin' around and enjoying ourselves.

First West Wengatz

The men of First West are men of great diversity. Each person has an integral part of the wings personality. If a single piece were to be removed, our solid structure would be weakened severely.

In intramurals we backed down to no one. Our diversity gained us respect in every sport. While we sweated on the battlefields, we still had the sophistication to turn on the charm for the ladies. If young man's charm was concentrated on one lass in particular, he stood an excellent chance of receiving "The Rock."

We discussed theology and ate Le Chef's food in between games of darts, poker, chess, and of course, Strat-O-Matic.

Our musical tastes were of especially high quality. Our diversity in this area was especially evident, from secular to Christian music to base was untouched.

Our weekly Bible study has always proved to be a growing experience. The leadership rotated from week to week, which resulted in many different formats and wide spectrum of topics covered.

The sterling tradition of First West was carried on in fine fashion in '81.

2nd East Wengatz

We have a FRESH and exciting wing with sports being a very KEY thing. We have some ACE nicknames for some very FUNKY athletic games. We have a STUD who likes to MAX, and a SON who wears JOCK-STRAPS. There's a HUNTER who is PSYCHO, and a FISHER man named OTTO. We have ALL-WORLD'S like WALT and AL, and a VAC that goes from gal to gal. There is a THUMPER who is always at ODLE gym, and a FATHER who is always counseling TIM. We have a Rock Star named SKINNARD, and guys who will chase a BIRD in a VINYARD. We have a couple of PALS named BROWN and GRIFF and a NUNCE, HOLTY, and RIFF. We also have a TOM, MEHL, and MATT and that is the end of that.

2nd West Wengatz

What can be said about 2nd West for the 80-81 school year? Well, there was enough activity to drive one of our P.A.'s as far as marriage. We started off the year by escorting our sister wing, 2nd West Olson, to dinner on parents weekend. The Taylor Yachting club sponsored a raft race. Our pleasure craft with the name "Watering Wheels", seated four comfortably on their knees and came in third in the race. The girls of second west helped us with that project too. We had a delicious lasagna dinner prepared by the Wengatz chef, an ice skating trip to Fort Wayne with 4th South that was so fun it left us in stitches, and an election returns party that didn't last long because we knew the results so soon. The first semester ended with the 2nd West Night Club Christmas Carolers giving seasons greetings to the girls of Taylor. The second semester was upon us before we hardly realized it, and it was just as exciting. We had a floor ski trip up to Michigan. Also the second annual twenty foot banana-split party.

The Cyclops is getting married; some of the bipeds moved off the wing; and all of a sudden Second Center life has moved into a transitional state. Gone are the days of wing disunity, the Zero Club, apple-orange wars, and 4 A.M. visits to the incinerator's trash shoot (conveniently located 20 paces closer to our rooms than 2nd East or West bathrooms). Although we are honored to be the men chosen to carry on the 2nd Center tradition of distinction, we have decided to carry out that tradition in less traditional ways.

Take for example our September social activity. Well, uh, maybe we should forget that and think about, uh, the hayride, yea, the hayride. Letting Jugs make a U-turn on Highway 22 in a 55 M.P.H. zone? . . . How about 6 inches of shredded computer paper covering the wing floor at Wengatz Christmas open house . . . the Debbie Boone "it can't be wrong when it feels so right" Fan Club . . . Hawaiian Bowling Night . . . Oh yea, "indeed", the All night Jokeathon . . . and remember, one commando is worth ten good men.

3rd Center

Where else but 3rd Center can you find a group of guys who can lose every football game except one and still have fun?

Where else do you find a nice quiet studying atmosphere with quiet hours strictly enforced by the clean cut fearless P.A.? (sometimes quiet hours are as well kept as his room!) Where else can you find wall to wall Christmas paper or guys who eat with their hands at banquets? Where else can you find the best "chubbie bunnies" players or the latest punk fashions? Well, we've been called "grassholes" and worse, but we sure had fun. We had our crazy days and even our serious hours. The 24-hour pray-a-thon and the Bible studies were awesome. (Those were the serious hours.) But I guess it all goes to show that, "You don't have to be crazy to live in 3rd center, but it sure helps."

3rd East Wengatz

3rd East. Home of GUSTO. Rooms 333-351: MENTAL WARD. Diversity—Variety—Individuality. 37 guys from 19 states living in pseudoharmony. Amen! Who are we? Reverend O., Greed, Beaker, Big Red, Sreet-Bag, Mad Dog, Theor, Birchy, The Big Geek, Bull Dog, Sloth, Swanny (you all know Leo), California Bob, Coleslaw, Bondo, The Hag, Man of the Cloth, alias Cro-magnum man, Borg, Clutch—just to name a few. What do we do? Late nights out and about. Where? Well, EVERYwhere. Mass cutting. Risk and backgammon addicts. Studies? They can wait. Education is only a state of mind. 3RD EAST LOUNGE CINEMA. "Without Warning", Underride, "Crossings", "The Tragic Comic"—classics all. Indeed, men of GUSTO, shall we ramble on?

Send your tax-deductible dollars to Swallow-Robin Academy for Young Men. The Academy is a non-profit organization designed to further the spiritual, physical, and least of all mental education of its residents.

Located just off-campus from Taylor University, the Swallow-Robin Academy is housed in an architectural masterpiece of an edifice. The building is constructed to combine elegant living quarters for three types of animals: humans, rats and cockroaches.

Under the apathetic leadership of the P.A.'s, Randall and Kent, the environment in the academy is conducive.

Highlights of the year include:

The Third West Blight. Reaching epidemic proportions, many Academy members were struck this year. Some recovered, only to be struck again before the year was out. (Some will never recover.)

Professors Steve Long and Keith Duncan led a course in The Importance of Dependability and Building Effective Relationships.

Dr. Harvey Warwick, head of our Political Science Department, taught a course in campaign management.

Assistant Professor Beté Demeke took a sabbatical from the Sociology Department and conducted a study, trying the patience of the Kokomo KKK.

Professor Jeff Ludwig (Phi Beta Kappa) was unanimously voted Scholar of the Year, while his former roommate, Jim (move it along, son) Teela was voted "Q" of the year.

Coaching staff, Zehr, Akers, Gerardot, Duttweiler, and Golland did a tremendous job improving the athletic problem and at the same time providing athletic supporters for the Academy.

Geology Professors Rexroth, Simpson, Taylor, and Yost teach us about Hunting for Rocks, or "How to waste six months pay so she'll kiss you good-night." (By the way, April 16th was a darned good prediction, Randall). Reverend Flip Jamieson started his own convent of sisters (and their brothers are still looking for him.)

Parents, if you want your son to benefit from the unique living experience of the Academy, or if you just want to send a donation, call us at ext. 217. Ask for Skippy.

By the way, where the heck is Melba?

President

ILIUM: What do you feel is your most important contribution in the years you've been at Taylor?

Dr. Rediger: "Regional accreditation, and accreditation of the teacher education program. We became a member of the Associated Colleges of Indiana, and I helped plan the campus which goes beyond the original 1940 version of a few buildings—not even including the library.

Taylor is not primarily facilities, and has come to be considered one of the few fine Christian Colleges in this country. That means selection of people and keeping these things in balance—good adequate facilities for this student body, academic excellence, and student values. There has not been an overemphasis on bricks and mortar. We've maintained a balance in growth, with the emphasis on people—all on a base that God can bless."

ILIUM: Mrs. Rediger, are there ways that you help change your husband's mind to your way of thinking?

Mrs. Rediger: "Oh sure, through discussion. Often through the evening when he starts talking, I'll give my opinion. Sometimes I sense change, but not always."

ILIUM: What do you see as your rewards?

Dr. Rediger: "I wouldn't have done anything else in our 38 years here. There is a joy of being involved with the people we have here. There are long-range results, like what our graduates are doing. There is nothing in the ministry that can provide as many rewards as in a Christian College setting. People are the biggest reward—more than salaries or any other benefits."

ILIUM: What recommendations do you have for the next president?

Dr. Rediger: "Taylor University ten or twenty years from now will be what somebody envisions in leadership now, wants it to be, sets goals and directions, and is super careful in the selection of people to make it happen. No one can do it by himself. Be sensitive to people and their needs, and the creative contributions of good people carefully selected. This also applies to students. You have to have a certain measure of compatibility. The main function of the president of the '80's will be to select right people to perform leadership roles of a Christian College. He can't conform to certain lifestyles just to have a job here. One has to share in the essence of Taylor and its mission or else the students will suffer."

ILIUM: Mrs. Rediger, what recommendations do you have for the next President's wife?

Mrs. Rediger: "Be very conscious of the needs of the faculty already here, have an open door for students, and a feeling on campus that you really care. That's a matter of hosting campus people with a warm compassionate feeling."

Faculty

The official duties of Taylor's faculty as teachers, informers, and communicators are easy to see. Yet, more than that, they are guides, examples, friends, and spiritual brothers and sisters to us in Christ. Oftentimes, their personal faith and commitment shine clearly through them in the classroom environment as they integrate liberal arts with a Christian world-view. Their faith extends beyond the bounds of the classroom as students and faculty form deep spiritual friendships. By praying and sharing together, a bond is created, a certain unity is molded, which no textbook or lecture can define. It is this spirit which fosters both intellectual and spiritual growth in the Taylor learning experience.

The 1980-1981 Ilium had a few changes from the year before. After figuring out Why Taylor? the staff moved to a more Biblical theme. After all this is a Christian college. It almost feels like we had to.

The section editors did a very good job this year. Scoreblocks were added to the sports section, the faculty and administration was taken in group shots, and the seniors section went through a great change.

The general staff was a mixture of different friends of the editor or the section editors. They came up when they could and did a good job ranging from the picky to the impossible.

A true friend unbosoms freely, advises justly, assists readily, adventures boldly, takes all patiently, defends courageously, and continues a friend unchangeable.

William Penn

And why is the editor of a yearbook putting a quote like this as his final comments? The reason is that my friends helped put this book together. A lot of close friends. The section editors worked hard, and they allowed me to worry about other parts of the book. Thanks to all the people on the general staff who could give a little of their time to do things when we needed them. Some who joined us later were Molly Moody with her stamping and typing, and Jenny Klosterman with all her work, phone calls to irate hall directors, and her great sense of humor. Thanks to Ric for a good color section, Tim for all his darkroom work, and Lynette for keeping me going. Thanks to others for their prayers in a personally rough year. Thanks for being there, Penny. Thanks to my roommate Doug "Al Haig" Crew who went far beyond emptying garbage cans and stuffing envelopes—he was there to always listen.

Good luck fellow Seniors. Now let's see if we're as well prepared as Taylor keeps telling us we are. When you get this book, you'll be in your new "world". How do you feel? Is it as bad as you thought it would be? Maybe looking at these pages will help bring back some of the security of Taylor. Good bye and thanks to all my friends.

Bobby Housch

P.S. Thanks to Dan Boyd for pulling us out of some jams this year!

though they are many,
are one body,
so also is Christ.
